Is enchanting a good skill in ESO? Yes, enchanting is an extremely good skill to have and not enchanting your gear or weapons is a real waste of resources and damage you could be dealing to your foes! How do you get Enchanting in ESO? You have to find the crafting station for glyphs and use it. From there you can either craft your own or deconstruct them.

How do I get more enchanting experience? Also extract glyphs that you find when you loot mobs, as this will cause you to discover rune stone traits, and that will grant you more enchanting experience. To max out your ESO enchanting level, you will need to spend skill point in the following two Enchanting skill trees: Aspect Improvement and Potency Improvement.

Why do Enchanters use runestones? The deciphering of runestones was aided by repetition of words and phrases one has already learned, and the extraction of runes from glyphs, allowing enchanters to obtain the knowledge they needed to master more difficult runes. Some claimed the utilization of glyphs caused a collapse of the enchanting market.

Enchanting is one of the 6 professions in Elder Scrolls Online. It creates various glyphs which are used to add attributes and various effects to your items. To create these glyphs you'll need to be at an enchanting station anywhere in the world, as well as have 3 appropriate reagents: one Potency, one Essence and one Aspect rune.

I was not trying to recommend use of them, just filling in a minor bit of technical information. You seem to be confused between the jewelry trait (adds magicka/health/stamina, can't easily be replaced) and the enchantment (spell damage/magicka regeneration etc). Jewelry enchantments can easily be replaced if you have the correct glyph at any time.
