U.S. natural gas prices continue to increase, and with this rise in prices, we could expect power prices to grow with it. As energy prices rise and grid instability becomes more common, having an independent energy source is crucial. Battery storage systems enable energy independence, reducing vulnerability to fluctuating prices and supply interruptions.

Generac should be able to beat Tesla on price, but they weren't as of 2022. I have heard good things about Enphase's system, but at the time I looked into them for our company (2019?) they weren't offering backup functions, only peak shaving for the grid. Car batteries are terrible for back-up power in the home. They are designed to

You can either power the backup generator via gas (assuming you are plumbed for natural gas or liquid propane) or diesel. Sizing, however, is based on what you need to power. I had no clue what the price range was on a system like this to even ballpark a budget; this is definitely helpful. $15k is pretty steep, but for $2000 it may be
